

DIGANGANA DAS - BIO NOTE

Digangana is a third-year economics undergraduate student at the University of Calcutta. She is an avid and voracious reader with an affinity for writing and debating.

Born and brought up in Assam, her family has a first-hand experience with communal conflicts in the North East of India. Her family's ordeal motivated her to research and learn more about the social issues in North East India. Digangana's research in MCRG was based on understanding the role of religion in the formulation of public policies for migrants in Assam.

Digangana is passionate about the values that the TED community stands for and hence has participated in several TEDx events in Kolkata, along with organising her own TEDx conference in 2019. After the completion of her undergraduate studies, she is interested in pursuing a Masters degree in economics with a focus on International Relations and Public Policy.

Digangana interned at MCRG for a duration of 2 months in January and February 2021. She can be reached at dasdigangana99@gmail.com.
