

Bio Note

Kusumika Ghosh has done her MA in Peace and Conflict Studies with the Institute Gold Medal (2016-18) from the Tata Institute of Social Sciences. She has worked as a Research Associate with the North Eastern Social Research Centre, Guwahati on a project called ‘Conflict Transformation and Peacebuilding in Northeast India’; and has co-authored a book called Landscape of Conflicts and Peace in the Northeast: The Role of Religion (North Eastern Social Research Centre; 2019). She was also associated with The Partition Museum, Amritsar (An initiative of The Arts and Culture Heritage Trust) as a researcher on their endeavour to archive oral history and documents of the Partition of 1947 on the Bengal Border. An avid reader and debater, Kusumika works on locating gender in all social issues – especially in conflict zones.
