Her Internship Report (May 2013)

I interned in CRG for a period of one month in May, 2013. The experience for me was quite enriching as it helped me to understand the basic concept of forced migration and its related issues. My work involved

Preparing an index for the articles published in the journal REFUGEE WATCH for 40 issues, from 1998-2012. The index was based on sub themes viz " India" , "South Asia" , " Rest of the world", " IDP" , "Refugee", " Partition , Border and Conflict" , "Gender and Age", "Health and Education" , "Law" , "State ,Governance and Policy" , "Camps" , "Statelessness", "Security", "UNHCR " , "Climate, Environment and resources" "Research Methodology", "Memories and Narratives" , "Return" and "Trafficking". This exercise helped me understand the key words better.

Secondly I am writing an article on "The issue of dam proliferation in North-east India". It would emphasize on the social cost of development projects like mega dams which involves displacement of large scale and also the R and R policy of such projects . This would certainly help me in Masters Dissertation, which is somewhat related to this issue.

I would like to thank everyone at CRG for helping me immensely and guiding me at every step. The experience of interning was certainly a pleasant one in a place like CRG.
